Earn--Save

"Industry earns money, and prudence plans what to do with one's earnings."

Experience teaches us that it is the part of prudence to save a portion of one's earnings for that proverbial "rainy day," which, sooner or later, comes to most of us.

Experience teaches us, also, that it is the part of wisdom to deposit those savings in a well-managed savings institution, where they will earn FOUR per cent. interest.

It is said that in 1820 there were only 9,000 savings depositors in the whole United States, while to-day, less than a century later, there are more than 9,000,000 savings depositors in this country. There must be a reason for this wonderful increase—people have learned that if they would have they must first SAVE.

If others have learned this lesson and profited by it, you can do the same if you will.

We shall be glad to have you open an account in the "GRANITE" at 4 per cent. interest. Money deposited now will draw interest from August 1.

SATURDAY, JULY 19, 1913.

Mellen isn't even a pinch hitter any longer.
Charlie Mellen and Jake Stahl can sympathize with each other.

Nevertheless, we are banking on the Leans to "come back" in the next encounter.

When Wilson meets Wilson in Washington, then comes the retirement of the latter—perhaps.

Another oligarchy in Vermont: twenty-six voters turned out for a village meeting in St. Johnsbury, where there are 7,000 inhabitants. That is government by the few with a vengeance.

The college men who are taking six weeks' training in war tactics at the Gettysburg battlefield and who are being put through a repetition of that great battle ought to profit by the mistakes made in that battle which are now evident. It was a great battle but it was not perfectly planned and carried out.

The Barre Times puts up a plea for "observation cars" on Vermont trains. Well, wouldn't that be fine, and what better than such cars on the St. J. & L. C.? Surely there is no better outlook in Vermont than in coming across this way from St. Johnsbury, when Mt. Mansfield and Camel's Hump show up splendidly.—Morrisville News & Citizen.

And plenty of time in which to enjoy the scenery. There surely ought to be an observation car on the "Long-Coming" line.

Congress travels at express train speed when it wishes to, as note the rapidity with which the amendments to the Erdman act were adopted; and again it goes by ox team movement, as shown by the handling of the tariff measure. But it needs to be said in all fairness to Congress that the situation was acute with respect to the former legislation and that there is more reason for leisurely action over the tariff measure. In other words, Congress saw its duty and did it.

Among those persons mentioned for successor to Charles S. Mellen at the head of the New York, New Haven & Hartford system is Timothy E. Byrnes, that native of Vermont who has been making a name for himself as a keen, hustling railroad man; but something which seems to point adversely to his chances is the fact that Mr. Byrnes was dropped from the Boston & Maine management in the recent re-organization. That is not yet explained, unless it be that Mr. Byrnes was a protagonist of Mr. Mellen's ideas in the conduct of the Boston & Maine and was, therefore, not with the incoming crowd.

"Supposed to have been set by traps" is the sentence tacked to stories of many fires throughout Vermont at this season of the year, the list being capped by Thursday's fire, which destroyed a large marble finishing mill in Rutland. A little harsher treatment of the traps by the hand of the law might abate the tramp nuisance to a great extent and lessen the tension caused by frequent outbreaks of flames in most inexplicable ways. Vermont is a pleasant spot but it ought not to be for that kind of individual who lives on the country and feels no responsibility whatever for protection of property.

The rumor that a movement has started in Congress to pension the surviving Confederate veterans must have been born at the Gettysburg celebration. It is not likely for the present to get any farther north than Lee's army did. The war is over but the annual pension appropriation for old soldiers is bigger than ever before in American history.—Springfield Republican.

Pensions are generally awarded for heroic services rendered in behalf of a government or a great humanitarian principle. In view of the fact that it will be hard to prove that the Confederate soldiers rendered heroic service either for the United States government or in furtherance of some great humanitarian principle, it will be rather illogical to grant pensions to them. Of course, the war feeling has blown over and there is nothing but the best of relations between the North and the South; but the hard, cold fact remains that the Confederates fought against the established government and for a system which the succeeding years have condemned. It is idle talk to try to stir up sentiment in favor of pensions for former Confederate soldiers.

The Municipal Journal contains some hot weather hints to boards of health relating to the sale of foodstuffs in stores which are so good that they are here reprinted for the benefit of dealers: "While it is presumed that the health officer of board of health of every city and town guards against the sale of unwholesome food at all times of the year, it is especially imperative during the hot weather of mid-summer that frequent inspections be made of all stores where food is sold, both because of the greater probability of finding putrid meat and decayed vegetables at such a time, and also because during the hot weather the effects of these is most serious in aggravating the effects of intense heat. The effects of overheating seem to be more serious in the case of children than of older people (except the very old) and they also are more given to the eating of either green or overripe fruit than their elders, and it therefore seems desirable to be specially careful that all fruit sold or kept in stock be suitable for consumption. Although the summer had hardly begun at that time, during the last week of June the board of health of Washington, D. C., condemned 61 pounds of meat, 63 barrels of fish, 82 baskets of vegetables and a considerable amount of blackberries and cantaloupes. When the health of the community is at stake, there should be no hesitancy in destroying all food which in any way violates the health regulation of the city."

GRANITEVILLE.

Come out and see the pitchers battle.
